

African Soccer Stars Show They Don't Care Less

11 September 2009

At the launch of the SARI Soccerfest 09 and Concern KiteFest , African soccer stars lent their support to the campaign to protect Ireland's overseas aid budget.

(From left to right) Oscar Sibanda (Drogheda Utd), Victor Ekanem (Shamrock Rovers) and Chukwuemeka Onwubiko (Bray Wanderers) let it be known that they don't care any less about the suffering of others, about the injustice of global poverty and about keeping a solemn promise to people living in poverty; people who need our support now more than ever.

The SARI Soccerfest, led by Brian Kerr, brings together over 40 men and women's teams from a wide range of nationalities, now living in Ireland, making it the largest intercultural football tournament in Ireland.

Concern's Stop Child Labour KiteFest will see kite flyers from around the world coming together to display and fly their spectacular kites to raise awareness of child labour in the developing world.

Further information www.sari.ie or www.stopchildlabour.net